Pre-Hash

I arrived at the run site at 3:45 expecting to see some other hashers, but no only a "HHH Car Park " sign confirming I was at the right place. After about 5 minutes the first of what was to turn out to be a large pack arrived and by the time the pre-hash circle was called the pack numbered 59. The weather was fine with no threat of rain.

The GM called the pack to order for the trail briefing by Donkey Cock. The pack was advised of three trails, a short and long walk and a Runners/Rambo's trail with a speed bump. No hazards other than one barbed wire fence crossing suitable protected with rubber tubing.

The Trail

With the pre run briefing over completed the pack set off in a westerly direction along the road leading to the Agricultural College and then broke right following Donkey Cock carrying paper across a very rough field until reaching a gravel road and onto the first check. With the check broken fairly quickly the pack skirted a rather large embankment before a suitable climbing point was found. Upon reaching the plateau the trail crossed the land fill to arrive at a check by a lake. Was this to be a circumnavigation of the lake to make up for those that missed a similar feature the previous week on the Cha-Am Hash? Mudman headed off to the right having been goaded in that direction by Hare Sodomy but alas the trail was called straight ahead thereby leaving Mudman at the back of the pack.

As the trail took the short side of the lake I got into conversation with Brambles and as a result missed the paper going to the left. As a result we soon found ourselves in waist high grass and very wet underfoot in places. Having warned followers of our dilemma, Hollow legs and Scaley Back found the true trail and stayed dry, I also believe No Name Korn managed to avoid the water and get back on trail. Having got back on trail we then headed towards the hills but not without taking a left and then a right behind trees and then back to finish on the road. At this point the cars could be clearly seen and several hashers opted to take a short walk home, thereby only completing 3 km in total. For those that wished to complete the course the trail then went left to the SW Split where Hare Sodomy was loitering.

Having left the Short Walk trail behind us we headed northwards parallel to the hill though tall grass and over uneven ground before the trail took a right and head towards the hills and the Run/Rambo split. With the remaining walkers skirting the base of the hill the Runners/Rambo's headed into the trees and scrambled over loose branches and slippery ground for 700 metres before emerging and joining the walkers. Just prior to joining the trail I was blinded by the setting sun and ended up head butting a rather large tree branch. After a further 300 metres the Short Walk trail merged and both Hares were there to pass comment. Donkey Cock was moaning that he probably lost 20 baht as Mudman had finished in under an hour but it was looking likely that Brambles might not complete in 70 minutes so he would not be out of pocket. From this point it was a further 1.1 km skirting round pineapple fields and across rough ground to the road and back to the cars.

Post Trail and Circle

By the time I returned many of the pack were into the bebies and snacks. The remaining hashers still out on trail all arrived back within the next 15 minutes and there were no lost lashers. General chit chat and comments about the trail ensued for some time until the GM called the pack together for the post Hash circle.

The Circle

First down down was awarded to me for being the volunteer scribe this week. This was then followed by the Hares, Donkey Cock and Sodomy who received a thumbs-up for good trails. At this point I believe Cathusalem handed over the circle to Pussy Peddler who requested the Hares remain in the circle. As the trail was laid across very ankle twisting ground in the early stages of the run PP decided they should be made to sit on the ice. Regrettably no ice was available but Lost Cause stepped in with two large pineapples. The Hares were then requested to sit upon the pineapples and drink their DD's This was followed by Lost Cause for some misdemeanor that I do not recall, As several hashers opted to only complete 3 k by taking the road home they were duly punished. Next were the returners who included Quick Mickey, Beverley/Irene, Smelly Fingers, Sodomy, Brian Pollard, David & Kerry Shepherd, David Thomas, Fiona Bevan and Korn. This was followed by the welcoming of Virgin Hashers but no one showed. They most probably had all gone home with Dave the Rave. Sodomy therefore proposed that Korn be a stand in lookalike and so it was. Cathusalem then stepped back into the circle for the naming of Fiona Bevan having been prompted by Beverly who in turn received a DD. The Hash RA, Colosus then entered the circle duly dressed in robes and preceded with the officinal christening of Fiona 'Red Hot Totty' Bevan into the fold. The circle was then closed after the announcement of next week's Hash.

On After

Around 30 hashers then made their way to the Khrua Baan Rao restaurant on the Klong Road for further sustenance.
