Pre-Hash

Another hot day forecast but as Hash time approached clouds cover was increasing, the breeze was getting stronger and the hash site setting by a blue water lake was looking inviting for a post hash dip. A few ladies set up camp under a tree overlooking the water while the beer truck was unloaded.

GM Legs Wide open called the pack to order for pre-run briefing by loan Hare Tinks. Bush Whacker having departed to Bangkok in the morning to escape any criticism. Tinks advised of no fences although there were other hazards such as water filled ditches and it was recommended not to short cut. Warning about cattle and possible false trails. Tinks advised there was a walker's trail of around 5 k with a runner's loop of about 3 k.

The RUN

Ballbanger had spotted paper earlier and pointed the direction of the trail. The pack set off with Rent a Frog racing away with rest following. Having found the False Trail marker, the pack were looking for the check. Eventually Tinks called the pack back to the first paper and then the true trail by the lake was found. The Start point could always be classed as a check but more times than not the pack are pointed in a direction. On to the next check which saw Froggy racing away again and finding paper too far away from the check while others had found paper and called trail in the opposite direction. Mudman opted to return to what he considered to be the correct trail. The trail navigated around several paddy fields and then into a more densely overgrown area with water hazards all around. The Hares being considerate towards the hounds laid two concrete posts across the water ditch with paper at both ends of the home-made bridge. But some of the leading hounds completely missed this. Even though Rainbow Balls arriving late had caught up with the front markers found the bridge with no trouble. Having seen other hashers had overrun he advised them of the crossing point. However not everybody listens, and Screwdriver opted to jump the ditch but failed losing one shoe in the mud in the process. The trail now crossed open ground which was occupied by a small heard of cattle. Froggy maintained his tradition of running and waving a yellow shirt resulting in a stampeding herd. This did not go down well with the herdswomen on her bike who cursed at the front runners. Onefer responded to her that it wasn't her land and therefore should accept the situation. At this point the trail came to the Rambo/Walkers split, the Rambo's right and the Walkers left.

The walkers trail was a 450 metre stroll down to the merge point with the runner's trail. The Rambo's followed trail through waist high grass towards the bypass with two checks on route. The trail then paralleled the highway wandering through a mixture of trees and open ground and with three more checks which kept the FRB's busy. Finally, the trail came out onto an open field area and then through a banana plantation before meeting up with runner's trail. The trail then wandered through bush land with further water hazards before coming out onto a gravel road. The trail then continued east down the side of a villa complex with a large muddy puddle to navigate. This was possible by using the villa complex wall and therefore most people kept dry feet. Lost Cause took a lift with Tinks at this point back to the car park. The trail then skirted around paddy fields again until coming out opposite the start point. Froggy having taken the short cut early on was obviously hampered on the runner's loop returning well down the list and managed to cause a second heard of cattle close to home to get very agitated. The final two finishers Paddy Red Belly and Swindlers Pissed completed most of the trail except for the early track round the paddy fields.

Pre-Circle, Circle and Down Downs

With the pack back it was time to enjoy cold beer and tuna pasta with bread rolls and pass comment on the trail and welcome back absent friends. The evening was turning out to be pleasant and cool with a wonderful sunset. It was at this time that GM Legs Wide Open called the pack to order for rewards and punishment as follows:

Hares: Tinks

Snacks: Legs Wide Open

Ice: Mudman

Late arrival: Rainbow Balls

Teapotting: Mudman

Nature Lover (Sunsets): Mudman

Returners: Pussy Pedlar, Mudman, Joe & Some Day Soon, Richard

Muddy Foot & Lost Shoe: Screwdriver

St Georges Day: All English hashers

On After

With darkness closing in around 20 hashers set off to try a new restaurant located near the cross road junction on Soi 88. The service was a little slow, but the cold beers and social chit chat occupied the waiting time. Food in general was good although for Butt Out his curry was not spicy enough.
