Pre-Hash and Briefing

A return to the Thai Boxing Orphanage located in an old quarry past the Big Boom Farm Cock Fighting Centre and the Taipan Resort. The weather was being kind to us today and as the beer was being unloaded and iced the hounds arrived mostly in time to pay their taxes and be ready for the customary briefing from the Hares. It was great to see Ballbanger and Dragon Tail back on the Hash. Sloppy Camel advised that we had three trails, short, medium and long. No particular hazards except we may come across a herd of Water Buffalo, a few yappy dogs. The Rambo trail is a little sparse on paper in one area as a result of running out of paper and there is a barbed wire crossing. Cathusalem explained that False Trails did not mean go back to the last check but to back track and look for other possibilities. Shortly after 4:30 the pack set off onto the tarmac road and went left.

The TRAIL

A short distance up the road and the trail went left and wandered through thick bushland and trees with a couple of checks before coming to the Short Walk split (1.3 km from Start) which several hounds opted to take. The trail continued heading upwards through similar vegetation for another 600 metres to the Rambo split. The Rambo trail headed left and upwards. It was on this stage that Bush Whacker passed me having taken a false trail and spent a long time looking for true trail. Now being the rear gunner, I headed on upwards and then downwards through trees and came across Head Ball Cock struggling to find paper. Soon back on trail we continued our way until we lost paper again. Was this the sparse area we had been told about? With calsl of "Are You" we heard Cathusalem guiding us in the right direction. Under the barbed wire fence and then right onto the old road still shown on Google maps as drivable. On up to the top and the merge point (the Rambo loop being 1.2 km) then down on a familiar track towards home. But somewhere he we should have turn right which would have brought us out on the short walk trail home. Not sure about this as we didn't find any trail so carried on down the road having seen Screwdriver and Master Baker in the distance to arrive back home last.

Pre-Circle

By the time Head Ball Cock and I had arrived back in only just over an hour we found the snacks had all gone and so it was crisps washed down with cold beer. It would appear the short walkers were back in 30 minutes or less. Having returned early several hashers disappeared before the circle was called. Butt Out was signing a get on with it for the circle, which was convened shortly thereafter, and down downs warded

The ON-After

A group of around 18 made their way to the Restaurant located on Soi 2. Unfortunately, the service was slow and some orders I believe were canceled. Bush Whacker and Hoover although arriving first waited patiently to be served last. The pizzas were good apparently, but the curries a little too spicy and the carbonara too salty.
