Pre-Run

With the possibility of the run site location not being so hidden and the Hares advising no other location suitable location for the beverage truck, your stalwart biermeister visited the run site and after careful consideration confirmed the location Ok and that a full compliment of beverages would be available. With this confirmation the membership were advised by email and the website upadted. This had the result of a good turnout of 40 hashers for Ding-a-Lings birthday run assisted by Cock in a Frock. The pack were called to order and the Hares advised on the trails, a short walk, a long walk and a Rambo trail involving two speed bumps. No cattle, a few dogs and no barbed wire. Apologies for taking the trail onto concrete roads but this was to avoid bees nests and a pack of unpleasnt dogs.

The Trail

The pack headed out in a southerly direction toward the Hua Hin Safari park and then took a left turn and then skirted a pineapple field (a Cock in a Frock tactic used on previous trails) and contoured along the hill side before coming out onto the road. The trail then left the road to a check and then led back onto the concrete road.

Several trail enders short cut here as Hare DaL was in waiting. After about 300 m the trail reverted back to a CiaF pineapple field and hill hugging section before rejoining the road and heading right to a T-junction. The trail went left and then a devious right turn into long grass and then out onto open ground. The trail arrived at a newly planted vineyard and then turned right into long grass and through an obstacle course of trees and then into long grass. At this point Slackbladder who had made a point of looking for trip vines failed miserably and ended flat on his face in a soft landing of long grass. The trail eventually merged with the short walk where CiaF was hidden in the trees calling the pack onto trail. The trail then reached the first Rambo split to the right and up onto the hill. The walkers trail stayed low and the Rambo trail merged again before the second Rambo split. From this point the Rambo trail headed right in a circular tour of about 3 km taking in Sanctuary Lakes, the Quarry and the lake by the fallen water tower. Meanwhile the walkers trail continued on the concrete and gravel road back to the car park.

Pre-Circle:

Upon arrival at the start point FRB's Mudman and Flying Frog were back and so were most of the walkers who took the short trail. The beverage box hidden in the tree line was open and guarded by red ants. Everyone was refreshing themselves and making comments on the trail amongst other local gossip. Just as the circle was called Slime and Lucky Me made it back, paid their taxes had some beverages etc. and departed elsewhere.
