Pre-Run

This was a visit to a location used by me on several occasions and was interested to see what the hares had put together for Run #464. When I arrived around 4:00 pm there were already many hashers gathered, as time approached closer to the official start time the pack size was looking good and by the time we set out, had reached 42. GM Donga called the pack to order for the pre-run briefing from Hares Cock in a Frock and Thalidoskid. We were advised of usual markings with paper on the right, to beware of electrified fencing and some unpleasant dogs. If we stayed on trail and did not short cut then there should be no dog problem. Warning that it would be a little wet underfoot in places. There were two trails, a short walk and a long walk plus a Rambo speed bump option on the long walk.

The Trail

The pack set out in a westerly direction but as the FRB's raced away to get ahead of each other they forgot about looking for paper and overran the trail which took a right turn and skirted round planted fields, pineapple fields and then heading back in a southerly direction towards a small hill before turning right and skirting more pineapple fields and passing through head high grass and wet muddy ground under and then round more pineapple fields heading east to arrive at the short walk split to the left and the longer trail going right. I anticipated this to be the Rambo speedbump but this was not the case. The trail skirted round the hill and headed south before turning right heading east and then breaking left and heading north. It was at this point that the trail became confusing with paper in the direction of what looked like the Short Trail walkers heading towards us. However, the trail went to the left at a wire fence and headed back towards the hill before turning right. At this point we had to negotiate two sets of wire after which the trail merged with the short walk. Some Hashers had ended up doing a circle at this point as they missed the trail leading to the left and to the base of a hill where Hare Cock in a Frock was waiting at the short walk/long walk split and the Rambo speed bump option. I chose to take the short walk option at this point with Orange Pippin and Yum Yum. The trail then followed a fence line before breaking left and heading back to the cars. Although we had the warning of dogs, we came across none on the parts of the trail we completed being Long Walk 1 and Short Walk 2.

Pre-Circle:

Moat hashers were back in the hour with a few stragglers arriving up to 15 minutes late. Slime and lucky me having arrived after the start caught up with the pack but somewhere lost trail and ended up last home. After quenching of thirst GM Donga called the post run circle,s
