Pre-Run

A return to a familiar area at same Dam Place off the Chom Phol Road for trails laid by expert Hares Hugmanannygoat and Dave the Rave. Hashers started to congregate from 3:15 and by the time GM Donga called for the pre-run briefing the pack had grown to 35. The Hares were called to advise on the trails for today. Two trails, a Walkers, and a Runners, with one split and one merge. There was also a small speed bump, no fences, no dogs, a possibility of cows. Usual checks with paper on the right.

The Trail

The pack set out heading north along a narrow track to merge with a wide gravel road. The trail went right and then right again then left through trees and bush land to the first check. The On On was called right and the pack spent several minutes looking for trail after finding a false trail. Brambles suggested that we go back to the check. So, I went back and upon arrival at the check found it had been broken and the true trail went left. In the far distance I could see DTR together with Ballbanger and Dragon Tail and after some distance I found the first paper and continued to a check concealed at the base of a tree. At this point a went in search of trail but was way out and eventually back tracked after hearing Donga call me back. Back on trail I caught up with back makers Golden Delicious, who I thought had opted to go back having only flip flips as footwear, Orange Pippin and Yum Yum. As these three were together I pushed on and meet hashers who had found another false trail. The trail went left, crossed the gravel road, and then started an uphill track assumed to be the so-called small speed bump. This turned out to be more of a Rambo speed bump. The trail eventually joined a gravel road and the run/walk split. The Runners going right to complete a 3 km circuit including five checks of which Cock in a Frock got wrong making his circuit loop more like 5 km. The walkers trail continued along the gravel road and then broke off right through long grass before rejoining the road again and heading to the dam where Hare DTR was waiting. The trail finished going down the side of the dam and through bush land back to the gar park.

Pre-Circle:

Most walkers returned within 60 to 75 minutes except for Hotpot, who lost paper and resulted in using her trusty phone and maps to get back to the start. Shortly thereafter the runners started to arrive and all hashers were back within 90 minutes. The walkers trail become known as the Rambo Walk due to the hill climb. There was also comment about no mention of false trail which led to confusion as to whether it was a return to the last check or look for options. However, everybody enjoyed the challenges and made small talk while quenching their thirst and munching on crisps.

Circle Down-Downs:

Hares: Hugs and Dave the Rave – excellent trails but the Walkers Trail was more of a Rambo Trail with the hill included.
