Pre-Run

A return to another of Hare Cathusalems favored locations the Rotthip Restaurant on the beach in Khao Tao. He had arranged for us to use the restaurants car park in anticipation that several hashers would use the restaurant after the close of post run circle. Plenty of shade in the carpark although the temperatures were lower than usual for time of year. This also saw the return of long absent hashers, Big Macker Knacker and Paddy Red Belly and Dutchy prior to her departure back to Europe. As start time approached some 30+ hashers had gathered in readiness for the briefing from the Hares, Cathusalem and Rubber Duck. Cathusalem advised of four trails, short medium, long and Rambo. Some checks and false trails, a few yappy dogs, no cattle, or fence crossings. With the briefing completed the pack set off on time

The Trail

The trails started away from the beach and wandered through side streets heading towards the railway crossing before heading north and onto what turned out to be a false trail. But with clarification that false trails did not mean go back to the check but rather look for other options. The true trail headed east towards the beach and then along the shore in a southerly direction before heading into the village and through what some hashers thought were people's houses before emerging on the road and turning left to the runner/walk split options. The walkers headed off in a circumnavigation of the lake to meet the outward trail and then headed back to the school and the restaurant start point. Meanwhile the Rambo trail headed left through the temple and then up many steps keeping left at the first Buddha and then on up to the second Buddha and a check. The trail went left and headed back down to arrive on Sai Noi beach and then headed west on the runners. The Rambo trail headed left through the temple and then up many steps keeping left at the first Buddha and then on up to the second Buddha and a check. The trail went left and headed back down to arrive on Sai Noi beach and then headed west on the road and then broke right and arrived back at the main lake and the merge point with the walker's trail. At this point a few runners opted out of the lake circumnavigation and head back to the beverage boxes.
