Pre-Hash Circle.

When I arrived at the run location the pack was already gathering but no sign of the beverage truck. Two new comers, Michael and Li (friends of Hotpot) were looking for alternative walking to the beach. A long absent hasher, Aunies Climax arrived with Drag Queen. The beverage truck arrived and the eskies loaded up with beverage by Jock Twat assisted by Brambles, FRB and, Hong Ting Tong. The long absent GM, Donga was back so the acting GM for the past six months handed to him. The Hares, Paddy Red Belly and Rubber Duck were called in to brief the pack on what to expect on trail. PRB advised that there were two Rambo loops and Merges before the return to home, possibility of cows on route, last seen near the Temple and electric fences so beware. Red tape used in the Temple area. Also as a result of rain earlier the Rambo Loop 1 may be a bit slippery so take care.

Rambo Trail 1

The pack set off shortly after 5: pm and headed south towards the crematorium before braking left and heading back in a northerly direction. As the FRB's were in clear view there was a lot of short cutting, an opportunity for a false trail missed. The trail continued heading north and then eastward towards the hill before contouring northwards and heading into the trees. At 1.5 km into the trail was the first Rambo/Walk split and I opted to take the Rambo trail, a big mistake as from now on I did not see another hasher until arriving back at the start point. The trail headed upwards before leading down a sloping rock face with no suitable handholds, so I resorted to sitting down and sliding on my arse towards the bottom. When back on my feet the trail continued to merge with the walker's trail although there was no sign. This section of trail was only 650 m but seemed to take ages to complete, although only 13 minutes in actual time. Having joined the walkers trail the Rambo Loop 2 was less than 400 m away. This time I stayed on the walker's trail as the Rambo trail went on a 2 km circumnavigation of the lake and quarry area to the north-east. The Rambo trail rejoined the walkers trail within 120 m of the split. The trail from hereon followed the gravel roads in a more southerly direction passing another popular hash start point by the lake and then heading left towards the temple. The trail was difficult to track but having reached the temple I headed east beside a small lake and found trail which continued in a direct route east back to the start point. As I mentioned earlier, I was alone for 3.5 km of the total 5 km and didn't see another hasher in sight either front or back. However, I was not the last home, African Queen and Donga arriving sometime later.

Post Hash Circle and Down Downs.

Hares: Paddy Red Belly and Rubber Duck received some appreciation from the runners but not so much from the walkers, but all in all good trails.

Stand-in GM: Donga thanked Ding-a-Ling for covering during his absence and for a successful 500th event, for which DAL added that it involved the 500th Run Committee.

Returners: Auntie Climax, Knockout Neptune, Max Factor.

Returner/Interloper: Maria

Virgin Hashers: Michael (Zurich) & Li (from North China) introduced by Hotpot.

Hashy Birthdays: Cathusalem, Hotpot, Cute Comer, Ding-a-Ling.

Christening: Terry finally named Wankoverus (Rank Hovis).

Joker: Donga with an outback story.

Next Week's Run: Cathusalems 85th Birthday Run

Full Moon Hash & 7/11 Hash: Penny Lame – on 7th July from the Changsawang Restaurant on the beach.

On After:

Apparently 16 hashers then went on to the on after at Ban Phor Mon Mai Kitchen by the lake next to the old JJ's Restaurant.
