Pre-Hash

Hashers arrived with a sense of foreboding for the Moonies run, given they specialise in downtown trails. This sense became acute as the beer truck was nowhere in sight. Wtf are we here for?

The mood further deteriorated when the hares announced there was no separate runners' loop but there were plenty of checks, designed to keep the pack more or less together, oh goody. Taken as, the walkers might have to do some checks, oh horror. The body language reaction from many of the hashers was palpable.

The Trail

Nevertheless, spirits lifted as the rabble got underway. Cute Comer cracked a joke in Isaan, which Smiley Limey didn't comprehend at all, nor did Flying Froggy who was too busy talking to his watch.

Some walkers participated in the early checks, which did keep the pack together, oh wondrous stuff. But it didn't take long for the runners to get well ahead amongst the pineapple fields.

Front runners, Flying Froggy, Mudman and Bent Banana led the way with Gerard, Smiley Limey, Brambles Bill, Donga, Honeymoon and Wurzle Gummage not too far behind.

Just as the runners thought they were going to finish at least two beers ahead of the walkers, they were slowed down - firstly with a false trail, which brought the FRBs back to the mid runners.

This was soon followed by a check which took them all an age to sort out. One local guy pointed them the wrong way, while a herdsman took on the same expression as his cow, like, what ting tong behaviour is this?

Many walkers took the opportunity to shortcut through the sugar cane towards the runners, who finally worked out which way to go. Slimey Limey delighted in pointing out some the miscreants including Mam, Ruud, Long, Dingaling, and a stumbling Jock Twat, while Honeymoon couldn't resist being in the line-up.

The rabble all made it back within 5-10 minutes of each other, with various impressions of the run, mostly favourable. The local village alcoholic had a field day, until his wife took him aside and shoved him back home across the road. Marriage bliss.

The Circle

With the late run start – couldn't begin without the beer truck turning up – it was getting dark as Dingaling called the Circle.

Some lively interactions ensued, especially with Aunties Bitch who earned charges for being a hare, bringing drinks into the circle, being a visitor and also leaving. Which by this point was proving a struggle. Jock Twat offered his sympathies.

Down Downs

Hares: Knockout Neptune, Penny Lane, Aunties Bitch – good run, with ample checks in flat open fields.

Bringing Drinks into the circle: Aunties Bitch

Visitors: Aunties Bitch, Ruud

Returners: Brambles, Worzel Gummage, Saucy Sally

Virgin Hashers: Heather, Robert, Long

Leavers: Ruud, Long, Knockout Neptune, Aunties Bitch

Delayed Beer Truck: Jock Twat: Friday night out drinking beers and Sambuca - misread directions

Honeymoon: Charged by Donga for producing Facebook Reels while on the Hash

Advertising Promoter: Donga

Announcements:

Next Cha-am Hash will start at 4:30, so arrive at 4pm - off the Bypass with Hugs and Cute Comer as hares.

Penny Lane promoted upcoming Moonie runs, and is wetting his pants about the inaugural HH Full Moon Hash Bash on Sunday 15th October. 3:30 for a 4pm start, it will be a longer run than usual with plenty of checks and falsies, oh goody.

The On After: Zebwer Restaurant
Twelve mostly good-looking hashers enjoyed tucker at Zebwer Restaurant on Soi 112.

Apparently the service was superlative compared to previous On Afters there. So, no-one got thrown out for complaining.

Or perhaps we're getting older, more patient, wiser. No bloody way, the service was better.
