Well it's Saturday and it's raining, do we go to the hash? and to make matters worse it's Hugs as the hare, who is famous for lying to us ladies as in saying it's flat and then we find out we are scaling a mountain.

Oh come on are we wimps or hashers, even if we just go for the beer and snacks which were provided this week by Karn, and very nice they were too, Vietnamese spring rolls with either mild, hot or blow your arse off dipping sauce, as newcomer Spencer will testify to, as he spent the rest of the night on and off the loo with a very fiery bum, that will teach him to show off to his girlfriend Lacey.

Lacey the virgin has no idea on what to wear for the circle so she opted for pink fluffy slippers, which caused a lot of merriment and the added bonus of being, young ,slim and very pretty.

The choir had returned in full voice after their trip to the land down under, obviously the copious amount of red wine that Colossus and Karaoke Queen consumed improved their vocal cords. Lost Cause just gets pissed and sings and says anything that comes into her head, which could be dangerous ,sometimes added to this after 1 or 2 Leo's she starts to do this funny walk, which can only be described as someone who has been called short going to the toilet, but obviously don't let her know I said that.

Tinks was called into the circle for no other reason than he usually knows an event or someone's birthday and it happened that this week it was dear old Liz, God save The Queen.

The hash this week was a good one, the runners were in good form dashing past us putting us to shame, might be something more to do with the beer at the end of it though.

The walk was taxing at times but very enjoyable, a little wet in places and boggy and Hugs made an effort to put a few stones down, so us ladies could cross a little stream without getting our tootsies wet, as in trainers boys.

Pussy Peddler assisted Karaoke Queen across which she thought was very gallant of him especially as he waited for her, then he tells her he was only waiting in case she went arse over tit and he would have taken pictures... and I thought chivalry was dead.

But well done Hugs for laying a trail with no mountains.

On another note we hear it's Cathuselum's 80th this week, happy birthday you old bugger, have a good one.

Jock Twat was asked to write a little something for the hash notes, but him being the quiet, shy retiring type he just said fuck off, get fucked and no fucking way thank you very much, such a nice man, of course we can put this down to him missing Legs Wide Open, after all he has sat in the house for a few days now and thinks he has gone deaf.

Thank you to everyone who attended the hash this week, it did look like it was going to be a wet one but you all being a true hasher turned up, as for the rest of you wimps who didn't show you should be ashamed of yourselves .

Before I finish I just want to say a fond farewell to you all, I have so enjoyed my Saturday's with you all, but I am now off to a colder place, where things will be very different, mind you I hope to offer a new slant on the Ramblers Association.

Take care all of you and if you can't be good be careful.

On On Karaoke Queen with lots of ideas from guess who?

Postscript by Hugmanannygoat

Sadly this was probably Karaoke Queens last hash. Her husband Brian turned up to the on-after to mark the occasion. It's a pity I didn't sell the on-after more enthusiastically which might have avoided some of our hashers going to a different on-after rather than the designated restaurant at Zabwer. The few who did turn up to the on-after were able to wish Karaoke Queen and her husband best wishes for their new life in the UK. I am sure everyone agrees Karaoke Queen will be sorely missed, On On Karaoke Queen!
